ALLEN PARK ATHLETICS

ON THE SIDELINE:

SUPER BOWL, ALICIA SILVERSTONE, OFFENSIVE GUARDS AND MOM

By Don Richter
drichter101@comcast.net

Super Bowl LVII was played last Sunday at State Farm Stadium in Glendale, Arizona. The game was exciting and well-played as the Kansas City Chiefs defeated the Philadelphia Eagles, 35-31. Trailing 27-21 entering the fourth quarter, the Chiefs outscored the Eagles 17-8 in the final stanza to win their second Super Bowl in the last four years.

Over 112 million viewers tuned in to watch the NFL's championship game. In contrast, just over 14 million viewers watched Game 6 of this past season's World Series in which the Houston Astros won 4 games to 2 over the Philadelphia Phillies. This year's World Series had the second-lowest overall viewership in the fall classic's history. I think it's safe to say football has replaced baseball as "America's pastime."

On a world scale, however, soccer is king, if one believes TV "numbers." The 2022 World Cup final between Argentina and France drew an estimated 1.5 billion viewers worldwide. That number is staggering. The World Cup final outdrew Super Bowl LVII by over a billion viewers. That's crazy.

Though surpassed by the World Cup final, the Super Bowl is still one of the most-watched events on the planet. All one has to do to realize how important the Super Bowl is to advertisers is to look at the cost of a 30-second commercial. For this year's Super Bowl, the price tag for a 30-second commercial was $7 million dollars. Yes, $7 million dollars. I must say, I was underwhelmed by this season's Super Bowl commercials. Though I must admit, as I've gotten older I'm less and less impressed with the Super Bowl commercials each and every year. The only commercial which piqued my interest this Super Bowl year was the "Clueless" parody. Maybe it's because I've had a crush on "Clueless" star Alicia Silverstone my entire life, but I loved seeing her recreate her iconic character of "Cher" for a Super Bowl commercial this year. I was amazed at how similar Silverstone looked compared to her original character despite the fact "Clueless" came out 28 years ago in 1995. Silverstone was 18 years old when she originally played "Cher" in "Clueless." Today, she's just as gorgeous at 46 years old. What's her secret? She never seems to age.

I traveled back to my hometown to watch the Super Bowl with Mom this year. Though 88-years old, Mom is still sharp as a tack. Always a big sports fan, Mom has been to at least one game of Detroit's four professional sports teams. The Tigers are her favorite Detroit team, however. I always like telling continued on page 6

CABRINI VARSITY BOYS BASKETBALL RESULTS

Written by Varsity Boys Head Basketball Coach Joe Osmulski

On Tuesday 1/31 Cabrini hosted a CHSL contest with Austin Catholic, Cabrini jumped out to a 19-12 half-time lead as the Monarchs were ice cold from the field scoring only 9 second quarter points however their tough defense held Austin

Catholic to 6 second quarter points. Second half wasn't much better offensively for the Monarchs however the defense was very tough forcing multiple turnovers & Freshman Lander Emmerick paced the team with 11 rebounds along with dropping in 9 points. Owen Tomsic led the Monarchs scoring with 18 points & Jack Delaney added 12 points while pacing the Monarch offense to a 43-30 win, moving the Monarchs to 4-1 in league play & 5-10 overall.

Written by Varsity Boys Head Basketball Coach Joe Osmulski

Cabrini hit the road for their last road league game of the 2022-2023 campaign, Cabrini brought their offense with them as the Monarchs scored a season high 22 points in the first quarter and took a half-time lead of 36 to 21 against Jewish Academy. Cabrini started the third quarter on a 10-0 run and kept pumping in points to a total of 27 third quarter points and starting the fourth quarter with a 63 -36 lead. The Monarchs had three players in double digits led by Senior Owen Tomsic who had 18 points & 7 assists, Freshman Lander Emerick adding 17 points along with 7 rebounds, not to be outdone Jack Delaney

friends Mom once watched the Tigers play the St. Louis Browns (who?) at Briggs Stadium (what?) in Detroit when she was a little girl. Briggs Stadium would later be renamed Tiger Stadium, while the St. Louis Browns would eventually fold and become the Baltimore Orioles. Mom went to the game with her dad (my grandfather). She said she fondly remembers that game because she got to spend time alone with her dad (Mom was the youngest and had two sisters and two brothers) and because her dad cheered loudly for the Browns all game long just to make my Mom giggle, roll her eyes and feign embarrassment.

Even today, Mom keeps up on local and national athletes and teams and oftentimes knows more about the state's pro and college squads than her longtime sports editor son. How many 88-year-old Moms out there commented on the offensive guard play of the Philadelphia Eagles during last Sunday's Super Bowl? My Mom did. "He looks like an offensive guard, doesn't he?" That was Mom's question to me after watching the Eagles run an offensive play followed by the camera focusing on a Philadelphia lineman walking back to the huddle. We both laughed at her comment. What other 88-year-old grandmother would even know the term "offensive guard" and then to properly use it in football conversation? My Mom, that's who.

And I must say we were both unimpressed with Rihanna's Super Bowl half-time show. Mom felt she "mailed it in" and was "lip synching" too much. During the halftime show, my sister texted Mom asking if Rihanna was pregnant. Apparently she is. I guess that's why she seemed to be going through the motions during her half-time performance.

It was fun watching the Super Bowl with Mom.

I even learned a little bit about offensive guard line play...

at Purdue University and be the girl in black (one of the feature twirlers at Purdue), graduate, and major in dietetics and nutrition to become a registered dietician. I'd like to eventually give back by teaching future generations to twirl.

CG: Hobbies/Favorite teachers and coaches?

MS: Tammy Albrecht, my main baton coach for the past ten years, and my mom for working with the dance aspects. Also coach Pete, for working with me in gymnastics.

CG: Parents and siblings?

MS: Tracy and Nicole Smith, my father and mother respectively, as well as my older brothers Kaleb and Shane and older sister Stephanie.

CG: What does baton twirling and representing team USA mean for you?

MS: "Baton is for me a fundamental part of my life, and without it I would be a dramatically different person. It keeps me busy and focused on achieving a goal. Part of that goal was making it to team USA, and that served as a culmination that I've worked for."

CG: Advice to younger athletes or athletes in general?

MS: I've learned over the years that hard work and practice make anything achievable. The repetition found in practice is fundamental to baton and the way I practice it, building muscle memory that you need in a physical activity like this heavily focused on coordination.

CG: Special awards & accomplishments?

MS: Michigan State NBTA two baton and rhythmic champion, Petite WTA world majorette festival queen and many smaller awards. I am representing Team USA in three events in the 15-17 age group; solo for the nations cup, strut and artistic twirl for world championship. The competion is this Summer in August, in Liverpool, England. I qualified for the NBTA to compete at the IBTF world championships. The way I qualified to get into worlds was through the AYOP competition, specifically in the Artistic Twirl Event.

Congrats to Morgan on making Team USA and all of her accomplishments!
