ALLEN PARK ATHLETICS

ON THE SIDELINE: EASTER, TIGER BASEBALL, BOAT RIDES AND PURPLE PEEPS

By Don Richter
drichter101@comcast.net

Happy Easter. I hope everyone had a nice Easter weekend. How 'bout this weather, huh? It seems like I blinked and we went from 20 degree nighttime weather a week or so ago to high 70s this week. I have a friend who lives Up North. To show how crazy Michigan weather can be, she told me it snowed at her house this past weekend, while later this week it's supposed to reach 80 degrees. I know, tell me something I don't know. It's Michigan, am I right? No surprise at all.

This past week I witnessed an event that has always signaled the beginning of warm temperatures and sunnier skies. While driving on Old US-12 just west of Freer Road, I saw hundreds of youngsters practicing softball and soccer on the athletic fields nearby.

I can't tell you how happy that made me. Seeing the kids running around playing sports out in the bright sunshine was a breath of fresh air for me. Every year when it's dark, cold and snowy outside, I drive past those same athletic fields, empty of activity, yearning for the days when it's warm and clear-skied. Now it appears those summer days are drawing nearer and nearer.

That makes me smile.

What also brings a big, ole grin to my face is the start of the Detroit Tigers baseball season. It's so nice just sitting back, relaxing and watching a Tiger ballgame. Even though so far this year Detroit hasn't had a very good beginning to its season, my spirit and mood always seem to improve once the umpire yells "Play ball!" The onset of a new Major League Baseball campaign always imbues me with a sense of hopefulness and a surge of positive energy. Now if the Tigers could just start consistently winning, everything in my world would be pretty darn good.

Another hint the weather is turning here in Michigan is the moment earlier this week when my sister and brother-in-law took their boat out for its first "spin" or "lap" around the lake. My sister and brother-in-law are lucky enough to live year round on a lake. I'm so envious. The closest I come to living near a lake is after a hard rain a portion of my neighbor's backyard floods or when/if the sewer grates out front of my house clog up forming a miniature pool outside my front door. The views are amazing (not). But for my sister and brother-in-law, they wake up to beautiful sunrises and go to bed watching jaw-dropping sunsets. Now those are truly beautiful views. Did I mention I'm jealous?

I did? Oh well, let me say it again — I'm jealous.

With spring now seemingly fully sprung, it means inside cleaning and outside work and landscaping here at the magnificent and lavish Richter Castle. My "To Do" list is long and varied. For starters, I need patchwork done on my roof, outdoor shutters installed on my windows, mounds and mounds of lava rock dumped on my multiple beds, five boxwood shrubs bought and planted, shed painted, driveway repaved, flower pots hung, marigolds lined up and displayed and mower tuned up and ready to go. And that's just the chores for this upcoming weekend. I'm kidding. I'll be lucky to accomplish half of those aforementioned "To Do" list items before fall rolls in and I break out my trusty rake.

Either way, Happy Easter everyone.

Or is it, "Hoppy" Easter. Sorry, I had to say it — it simply had to be done.

Don't judge me too harshly. I just finished an entire box of purple peeps. Yes, purple. I'm currently a little loopy. And earlier today, I inhaled a "peep cupcake." I never knew that was actually a "thing."

It was delicious. I will now be up for an entire week...

Autism In Michigan: Assessments, Timelines, Requirements, and “The Twilight Zone”

By Gary Schlack

“You’re traveling through another dimension, a dimension not only of sight and sound but of mind. A journey into a wondrous land whose boundaries are that of imagination. That’s the signpost up ahead, your next stop, the Twilight Zone!” The opening narration of Rod Serling’s television masterpiece from 1959 to 1965 “The Twilight Zone” hooked its audience from the start. Indisputably the staying power of those opening lines still shocks viewers today, even if you were forced to watch it in syndication over the years by a parent or older friend. Just the same, a diagnosis of Autism Spectrum Disorder, better known as autism or ASD, will shock you and your family the same way today. And undoubtedly the journey you and the person diagnosed with autism will be a wild ride. The sooner a person is diagnosed, the better equipped you both will be.

Autism is a “developmental disability impairment in communication skills, social interactions, and restricted, repetitive, and stereotyped patterns of behavior, among other behavioral and physiological symptoms.” It falls on the list of impairments in the amended American Disability Act of 1990 or ADA. There is currently no cure for autism and no set standard treatment or therapies that suit all persons. Autism does not pick on certain genders or align itself with a political party. It does not care what race or even what nationality you are. It does not even care if you are 1 or 99, or even if you are poor or your pockets are lined with fat stacks of cash. Autism simply touches us all and the degree to which a person’s life is affected also varies greatly, from challenges in verbal communication and non-verbal communication to learning and forming relationships. Furthermore, this is complicated by the fact each state has its own assessment or assessments, timelines, and requirements.

In the state of Michigan, the roadmap to navigate autism is filled with more twists and turns than even Rod Serling could have imagined. For starters, there is no set specific assessment and only a suggested assessment, the Autism Diagnostic Observation Schedule, or ADOS, that can be conducted by a psychologist. Secondly, there is no set timeline for when a person will be tested, unlike other childhood developmental required assessments. Finally, the assessment is not required, yet for a person to be covered under the ADA or start treatments for autism, a person must be diagnosed with autism.

As a father of a child with autism, an Allen Park City Councilmember, and a proud Michigander, this is deeply troubling! I put my faith and public trust in our government to do what is best to protect me and my family. My oldest son Gary Jr. is 4 years old and will start kindergarten this fall. He has autism, but he was not diagnosed until shortly before his second birthday. His mother, Bridget, and I, would not even have had him assessed for autism even then if it were not for his grandfather reading about autism and the signs for it in the New Yorker. We decided to ask his primary care doctor and thus started down our long and winding autism journey.

From the start, we knew life was going to change forever. The fact we had to ask for an autism assessment, something you think would be required is ridiculous. I believe my son should have been assessed a lot earlier, but being a first-time father, I did not know the signs of autism. No doubt this is an issue that tugs at my heart strings, but one that I feel is necessary to get the heart pumping and the blood flowing in the hearts of those that hold power in Michigan’s government, specifically those who hold the power of the purse in Lansing, the Michigan House of Representatives.

The power in the Michigan House of Representatives is currently held by the Democratic Party. A party that campaigned heavily in 2022 about the need to help families and cut the red tape that prevents them from getting the treatments they need. That time is now, not tomorrow! I strongly suggest Representative Joseph Tate, the Speaker of the Michigan House of Representatives, make autism a priority and pass an autism bill. A bill that would require early autism screening, set a timeline, and require a specific assessment or set of assessments. The bill should be definitive, comprehensive, and provide enough mechanisms for funding to help overcome any barriers by medical professionals to undergo the necessary training to perform autism assessments. Yet, the bill cannot be overreaching enough to be struck down by the next unwelcoming governor’s line-item veto.

By setting a timeline, requiring early autism assessments and a specific assessment, or set of assessments, we in Michigan will all be better off. Persons with autism will get the treatments they need quicker, families will not be caught with their paints down, and more evidence-based intervention interaction within the medical community could potential one day lead to a cure or at very least give professionals one marching order to follow to protect families from the very beginning. It will not be easy and will certainly take time, but the dedication and cooperation from the government to pass a meaningful autism bill will yield results that could last generations. Continuing to ignore the need to protect our children and individuals with autism till it is potentially too late is sheer negligence. It is a dimension in “The Twilight Zone” or in life, that no one needs to go down, no matter what wondrous land lay ahead.

Schlack Campaign Announcement

Friends and Fellow Allen Parkers,

It has been an honor and a privilege to be your City Councilman for Allen Park! As a veteran of the U.S. Army during the Global War on Terrorism, supply chain business manager, parishioner of St. Frances Cabrini, and trustee at the Knights of Columbus, I have the experience you need and the dedication desired to continue to serve you!

Allen Park is the home of the Detroit Lions! And home to our very own student Jaguars, Cardinals, Monarchs, Titans, and Chargers!

I understand the importance of transparency and communication. That’s why I remember all our students and their families! You are the reason why I decided to run for re-election! We deserve a government that works for all of us and an elected official who has been a proud advocate and supporter of the Allen Park Fire Department, Allen Park Police Department, Allen Park DDA, and the Allen Park Chamber of Commerce!

My priorities for Allen Park are:

- Investing in Public Safety
- Supporting Small Businesses
- Keeping Our Schools Strong
- Rebuilding Our Infrastructure
- Building a First Class Downtown
- And standing up for veterans, seniors, disabled persons, and union workers!

The future is bright! I will continue to work hard to ensure that Allen Park remains a great city today, tomorrow, and always! Thank you for your support and I humbly ask for your vote!

Plans for Theater Property in Allen Park Released

From: City of Allen Park Government

On Wednesday, April 5, 2023, the Administration submitted a funding request to Wayne County through their American Rescue Plan Act (ARPA) State and Local Fiscal Recovery Funds (SLFRF) program.

The City requested $5,000,000.00 in assistance for the Downtown Allen Park Improvements project, which has a total investment of approximately $13.6 million in public and private sector funding. This project will change the appearance of the downtown area and will be a catalyst for drawing visitors and new businesses to Allen Park. These improvements are not just a single project, but rather a comprehensive collection of projects that all fit together to better align Allen Park with the overall vision for Wayne County and the Region.

The pictures represent a preliminary vision of what the Allen Park Theater property could eventually look like.

Allen Park says Goodbye to Longtime Movie Theater

ed in the back part of the theater. The theater opened in 1942 and started showing second-run movies for $1 or $1.50. The final showing of a movie was October 10, 2019.
