DART will deliver a trailer to the WWRA Chelsea/Manchester Road bin site, across from the Chelsea Fairgrounds. Volunteers will be onsite to help collect and sort items brought in by community members during collection hours.

Marc Williams, WWRA facility manager, is glad to be bringing this opportunity to the community.

"Western Washtenaw residents are great recyclers. People want to recycle as much as they can, so when this opportunity came along, we decided to see how we could make it happen and it's been a success since we started in June 2021."

Over the course of the last 14 months, the WWRA has collected several tons of #6 foam.

DART Container makes food and beverage packaging items and actively collects and promotes foam recycling opportunities throughout the country. After recycling #6 foam, DART sells it to "manufacturers of picture frames, interior molding, pens, rulers and foam packaging," according to their website. Additionally, they recycle the paper scrap from their line of insulated cups, creating foodservice products made of recycled, recyclable and compostable or renewable materials.

Community recyclers need to know that only EPS #6 foam is acceptable. Examples of acceptable #6 include egg cartons, meat trays, some food take-out containers, medical coolers, and block furniture and electronic packaging.

Items not accepted are building insulation boards and packing peanuts. Packing peanuts can be taken to Recycle Ann Arbor on Ellsworth.

Volunteers will be onsite during collection hours to answer questions and help review foam items. Hours for the event are Friday, Aug. 5, 10 to 4 p.m., Saturday, Aug. 6, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Sunday, 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

*Western Washtenaw Recycling Authority (WWRA) is a not-for-profit partnership of and subsidized by five municipalities (Townships of Dexter, Lyndon, Manchester and Lima, and the City of Chelsea) working together to find alternative ways to handle waste and promote reducing, reusing, and recycling. The townships are served by convenient drop-off centers while the City of Chelsea has weekly curbside recycling pick up. # Ticket Sales and Auction Opens for Farm to Table Event to Benefit 5 Healthy Towns Foundation's Farmers Markets

From: Shawn Personke

Calling all farmers market fans!

Tickets for the 7th annual 5 Healthy Towns Farm to Table Fabulous Feast are now on sale. And the virtual auction benefiting the Chelsea, Grass Lake, Dexter, Stockbridge, and Manchester farmers markets opens Aug. 7.

With the seventh annual 5 Healthy Towns Farm to Table Fabulous Feast on Sunday, Aug. 21, 2022, at 4 p.m., we're pleased to be back in Chelsea, where the tradition started.

For the past 6 years, the fundraising dinner traveled to each of the five healthy towns. In 2016, Chelsea presented the first dinner, followed by Grass Lake, Manchester, Dexter, and in Stockbridge. In 2021, Grass Lake hosted the event under their community pavilion. Stephen Petty, CEO of the 5 Healthy Towns Foundation, sees the event as so much more than a dinner.

"Over the last few years, the farmers markets have demonstrated that they are far more than a place to find locally grown produce, but that they are also a hub for social connectedness and wellbeing," said Petty.

"Each of the market managers plays an important role in building relationships with farmers and growers, while also creating healthy connections between community members – an increasingly important element of the 5 Healthy Towns mission."

"Another of the primary pillars of the 5 Healthy Towns Foundation," said Petty, "is to encourage people to eat better, which in turn helps ensure better long-term health outcomes. Our farmers markets play an essential role in the five communities to support greater access to fresh, local foods at affordable prices."

He added that the markets also provide a great opportunity for community residents to stay connected locally, offering music and other events that encourage people to come together.

"Our communities love their farmers markets and the Foundation is happy to support the annual Farm to Table event."

I continued on the "James Earl Jones" leg of my "history tour" of northern Michigan. In the tiny town of Brethren, Michigan (about 25 minutes east of Manistee), I visited the now empty, but still standing, Dickson High School — the school Jones graduated from in 1949. It was in Dickson High School where an English teacher helped Jones overcome his stuttering problem by having him read poetry in front of the class. For most of his young life, Jones was a self-imposed mute because of his stutter. I've always thought it was interesting and a bit inspirational that a man known worldwide for his booming, deep voice was, at one point in his life, a mute and a stutterer. While growing up in Benzonia, Catton used to play "army men" with his toy soldiers on Diety Hill in the center of town. The hill is still there. Eden, Idlewild was an African-American resort that, in its hey-day, saw over 30,000 people living, vacationing and working in this town just east of Baldwin, Michigan. Idlewild's boom years were from 1940 through the 1960s. Idlewild was one of only a handful of places in the country during the years of segregation where African-American families could go to relax, unwind and enjoy the "good life." Idlewild had its own post office, fire department, multiple hotels and restaurants, a sprawling lake, beach and clubhouse and a legendary nightlife. At Idlewild clubs like the Paradise and the Flamingo, entertainers such as B.B. King, Etta James, Cab Calloway, Louie Armstrong, Aretha Franklin, Jackie Wilson, The Four Tops and additional Motown stars among many others performed to packed houses. It was said at the time that Idlewild was a "proving ground" and the "Midwest's Apollo Theater" for African-American entertainers. Nowadays, Idlewild is mainly a ghost town, with the Paradise and Flamingo clubs abandoned and boarded up and the restaurants and hotels all gone. But for anyone who loves history, driving through the town and resort area and past the lake and empty buildings, it's certainly worth the time and the effort to reach such a significant place.

Bored Kids? Lost Railway Museum and Fairy Forest in Grass Lake a Great Solution

By Aimee Bingham Osinski
anbingham@gmail.com

Parents, are you counting down the days until the kids are back in school? Have you heard enough whining about boredom to last a lifetime this summer? Trying to limit day trips and adventures due to inflation and gas prices? Thankfully, Grass Lake has affordable options just down the road.

The Lost Railway Museum is open

Wednesday - Saturday 10 am- 4pm. Admission is donation based so give what you can. According to the website, your kid can:

"Imagine the time before paved streets, cars and buses. Village streets bustling with activity and people in the early 1900's of Grass Lake. The electric Interurban railway system is the primary mode of public transportation. More than six railways intersected Jackson County and delivered visitors to and from Ann Arbor, Jackson, Battle Creek and Lansing. Now, get ready to see what that time was like at the Lost Railway Museum."

Among displays are outfits from the era, a mini Grass Lake with a train kids can control, a Model T and a train ride that takes passengers on a ride of the Interurban railway system and ends at the museum. Kids can have a history lesson, some fun, and learn about the technology that made it all possible, without costing parents a tank of gas and their sanity on a long trip. If you need snacks and coffee, the Roaming Goat, at 115 Lake Street has healthy, delicious kid friendly options and tired parents can recaffeinate with coffee and tea. Once the caffeine kicks in to take a walk through the Fairy Forest. As Sophie Boudreau described, "As its name suggests, this spot brings a bit of fairytale magic to life for all who choose to visit. No matter what your age, you'll find yourself utterly enchanted by this destination."

The Fairy Forest is currently themed Alice in Wonderland. It is the secret space I dreamed of as a child. Admission is free. The forest is maintained out of the goodness of the homeowner's heart. It is a magical place for children and adults alike. If they're still rambunctious, take the kids to the playground by the lake, also on Lake Street, coincidentally. You have a day of low cost entertainment for the family and yourself that will help keep your sanity during these long days before school starts.

Chelsea's Sounds and Sights Art Market features Regional Artists

By Aimee Bingham Osinski
anbingham@gmail.com

On Saturday, July 30th, I walked around the lawn of the Chelsea District Library, browsing art created by regional artists. In spite of the festival being an over 40 year institution in Chelsea, this was my first time attending. I was unaware artists were regional. Each time I stepped inside a booth and spoke to the artist, I asked, "are you local," and the artist universally said yes. I found myself thinking, "Wow this area has a lot of artists." When I realized that in order to be included in the art market the artist needed to be regional, I felt a little silly for repeatedly asking.

The variety of artisans was impressive, spices and teas made in Michigan, rocks and rock jewelry from a Chelsea based rock hunter. All the rocks, save one, were discovered in Michigan near one of our great lakes. There were two gentlemen who created some beautiful wooden pieces. They belong to a local organization called Huron Valley Woodturners. They meet on the 3rd Sunday of the month from 1:00pm- 3:30pm at 5501 Webster Church Rd in Dexter. Curiouser Clay is a local art studio in Chelsea that offers clay art classes for people to experiment and learn to enjoy the artform, visit their website at: <https://curiouserclay.com/>. The local mailboxes were real show stoppers, particularly the mailbox model of Chelsea. And local woman, Patsy Stanley, author, illustrator and artist. We were lucky enough to get a signed copy of her book, Christmas Stories from the Crones Castle.

After browsing, buying, and trying to stay on a reasonable budget. I came to the conclusion that this area is rich with creative talented people. I had no idea there was so much artistic talent in the area. Maybe community members should or could consider creating a space for artists to gather, share, teach and display their artistic talent? The potential to cultivate artistic talent in community members is huge with so many talented people ready to share their art work.

Chelsea Area Historical Museum Holds Two Fundraisers to Preserve Historic Boyd House

Local history lovers will have the opportunity to support the Chelsea Area Historical Museum Building Legacy Fund with two fundraisers that will help the organization preserve the museum's home, the historic Boyd House.

First up, supporters can enjoy a delicious "Concrete for a Cause" shake from Culver's. For every shake sold on Aug. 8 and 9, 2022, Chelsea Culver's will donate $1 to the museum's fund.

"We're happy for this sweet event at Culver's," said Jan Bernath, president of the Chelsea Area Historical Museum.

"Major projects are coming due," she added, "including painting the exterior, a new furnace, water heater, and roof."

Bernath has also launched a Building Legacy GoFundMe.

"We're proud of our historical museum and the fact that the building is one of the oldest homes in Chelsea. However, being one of the oldest buildings in town means it needs a bit more TLC and maintenance."

Donations of any size can be made at the museum's GoFundMe page or through the museum's website.

The mission of the Chelsea Area Historical Society is to gather and preserve Chelsea area history, educate the public, and promote the restoration and preservation of historic buildings and sites for future genera-

Amazing Places, Chelsea MI Part 1

From: Les Maness

The Chelsea Clocktower in downtown Chelsea, MI is a magnificent site to behold. It was built in 1906, stands 135 feet and has seven-foot-wide clock faces on four sides of the octagonal brick tower. It once served as a business office and showroom for the Glazier Stove Works and contained a water tank that held over 30,000 gallons of water for the building's fire sprinklers. Today it serves as a beautiful reminder of how classic architecture literally and figuratively stands the test of time.

Enrichment Games for Summer

By: Laura Perkins,
Laura Perkins Animal
Behavior, Chelsea

In these hot, dog days of summer, it can be hard to offer the same enrichment that you usually offer for your dog (for example, long walks aren't always do-able in the heat!). This month, I thought I'd share some ideas for enrichment games that are great for summer days.

1. Pool games - Just getting in and out of the plastic baby pool with a little water in it is a hit around our house. There's ways to fancy up the baby pool too - you can toss in a handful of rubber toys or empty water bottles for your dog to play with. And if your pup isn't a fan of the water, you can use the empty pool full of plastic water bottles or packing paper and scatter some treats on the bottom for her to snuffle up.

2. Other water games - Dan loves to go wading or swimming at local ponds. If he is going to get deeper than his elbows, I am sure to put his lifejacket on. I also use a waterproof long line so that he can swim out too far and to follow leash laws out of respect to other folks who may be using the waterfront. Doug loves the hose and the sprinkler. He will chase the water stream and jump and bite at it! A safety note for this activity - be sure that you aren't spraying your dog directly at his face. Water getting in his ears is not safe and you also want to be sure your dog isn't gulping water while trying to pant.

3. Games for the shade - Another favorite summer activity here is to scatter the pups kibble in the grass. The grass is nature's snuffle mat!

pig ears outside once or twice a week.

4. Dig pits - One of Dan's favorite activities is to dig in the dirt. To keep him from using my garden or an area of the yard I want to keep nice, he has a designated digging pit. At our house, this is just a dirt patch in the yard, but you can get fancy and build a border and add some clean sand. You can increase the appeal by burying toys, treats, or chewies in the dig pit for your dog to discover.

5. Indoor lounging - By this time in the summer, the humans in our household really enjoy some lazy afternoons in the AC. Our dogs do too!

Hanging out and watching a movie together, playing some indoor games, or doing some nice, relaxing massage with your dog are always excellent for enrichment. That social time with you is something they need!

I hope this gives you some ideas to add some variety to your summer fun. Enjoy these beautiful late summer days!

Chelsea, Michigan is perfect for anyone array of arts. Perhaps the best example of the diverse architecture is the renowned Clarkston Clocktower, the vintage Chelsea Depot and the massive Jiffy Mix building that are all within yards of each other. A stroll along the inviting downtown area reveals eateries like Zou Zou's Cafe & Coffee Bar that are deliciously welcoming. And the art ranges from the lovely Sculpture Walk to Emmy Award winning actor Jeff Daniels', Purple Rose Theatre Company.
